EXPERIENCE

Miho Hanato has been in the real estate industry for the past four years, excelling in the competitive landscape of New York real estate, establishing herself as a determined and innovative agent. She made her way from Japan to the Big Apple in 2004, climbed her way without initially speaking English nor knowing anyone in the city, determined and driven to find a home for herself— just like she will for you. Her business is founded on communication, commitment, and creativity. When combining Miho's fifteen years of experience in the Luxury Beauty industry and her four years in real estate, the clients always win. Her extensive training in the service of others makes her confident she will not only find you the best deal but the perfect home.

When she is not busy selling homes, Miho loves to run, practice yoga, and cook. She enjoys travelling (especially to Europe!) and has a strong passion for architecture. She is fluent in English and Japanese.
